

Commonly Asked Questions about the Science Project

1. Do I have to write a research report?

Answer: No, only a log is required. The log is all you need and it should contain notes from the three books you read for your bibliography. The log should be detailed and have all the data you collected during your project. The more information you include in your log the better.

2. What is a bibliography?

Answer: A bibliography is a list of additional resources that were used to research your topic. A written report is not required but research is necessary. The notes from your research should be taken in your log and clearly marked. Three bibliographies are required. Project idea books and encyclopedias do not count as bibliographies. These types of books may be used and listed on your board but you must have at least three resources on your board that are not project idea books or encyclopedias. In some instances encyclopedias are accepted due to the fact that that was the only place you could find information on your topic. Always see me first before you use the encyclopedia as one of your three required bibliographies.
